TELEPHONE BILL DEFEATED. Two Votes Against Its Consideration

in the Senate. Senator Jones of Arkansas made an attempt last hight to get the House bill to incorporate the Washington Telephone Company before the Senate. Before recess was taken at 9 o'clock, Mr. Jones moved that the telephone bill be taken up, but objection was made before the recess and the motion was renewed when the Senate reconvened at 10:30 o'clock. The bill was read, but there was no debate on it. Mr. Jones' amendment to take it up was defeated by a vote of 28 to 26, as follows:

McComas, McEnery, Mallory, Martin, Money, Perkins, Proctor, Simon, Taliaferro, Teller, Thurston, Tillman, Turner and War-

BUREAU OF STANDARDS.

Bill for Its Establishment Passed by Both Houses. The bill to establish a national bureau of standards was passed by the Senate without amendment last evening. This bill was passed by the House Saturday. The bill appropriates $100,000 toward providing a suitable laboratory of fireproof construction for the use of the bureau, the entire cost of which laboratory is not to exceed $250,000 The sum of $25,000 is appropriated for the purchase of a site, $10,000 for the equipment of the laboratory, $27,140 for the payment of salaries provided for by the act and $5,000 for general expenses. The laboratory is to be erected in the District of Columbia. It is believed the bureau will be of vast advantage to the commercial interests of the country.. The bill provides that there shall be a visiting committee of five members appointed by the Secretary of the Treasury, to consist of men promi nent in the various interests involved, and not in the employ of the government. This committee is to visit the bureau and report upon the efficiency of its scientific work and the condition of its equipment. The site for the $250,000 laboratory will be selected in the suburbs of this city, as far as possible away from any influence of electric wires of any kind, the building to be isolated from other buildings as far as

TO RETIRING SENATORS. Punch Bowls Presented to Messrs

Punch bowls were last evening presented to Senators Wm. E. Chandler by members of the committee on naval affairs and to Senator Wolcott from his associates on the Senate committees on post offices and post roads. The presentations were made in the rooms of the committees of which Senators Chandler and Wolcott are chairmen, there being a number of speeches of their associates expressing their high appreciation of the retiring senators.

TWO OFFICERS RETIRED.

Rear Admiral Hichborn and Pay In spector Colby. Two prominent naval officers were placed on the retired list today by operation of law on account of age. They are Rear Admiral Philip C. Hichborn, who has been chief of the bureau of construction and repair for the past eight years, and Pay Inspector H. G. Colby, one of the ranking officers of the pay corps. Pay Inspector Colby is a native of Vermont and entered the navy as an acting assistant paymaster in 1863. He reached the highest grade in the corps in April, 1899, and his last service was at the naval pay office in Balti-

AGAIN INAUGURATED

(Continued from First Page.) fast as conditions permit will establish local governments, in the formation of which the full co-operation of the people has been already invited, and when established will encourage the people to administer them. The settled purpose, long ago were ready for it will be pursued with tion. The Government's representatives, many. civil and military, are doing faithful and noble work in their mission of emancipation and merit the approval and support of their countrymen. The most liberal terms of amnesty have already been communicated to the insurgents, and the way is still open for those who have raised their arms against the Government for honorable submission to its authority.

Our countrymen should not be deceived. We are not waging war against the inhabitants of the Philippine Islands. A portion of them are making war against against the United States. By far the greater part of the inhabitants recognize American sovereignty and welcome it as a guaranty of order and security for life, property, liberty, freedom of conscience and the pursuit of happiness. To them full protection will be given. They shall not be abandoned. We will not leave the destiny of the loyal millions in the islands to the disloyal thousands who are in rebellion against the United States. Order under civil institutions will come as soon as those who now break the peace shall keep it. Force will not be needed or used when those who make war against us shall make it no more. May it end without further bloodshed, and there be ushered in the reign of peace, to be made permanent by a government of liberty under law.

Listening in the Rain.

The President's address was concluded at of the crowd had sought shelter before the on cheer when he concluded. At the conclusion of the ceremonies the President Stephan, commanding. lunched at the Capitol.

company the President. A phalanx of more than 30,000 men faced the west this afternoon accompanying President McKinley from the C pitol to the White House after he had been sworn in for the second term in the highest office of the land. The great column was made up of the representative military forces of the United States, including the citizen soldiery and the civic organizations of many

The column wheeled into Pennsylvania avenue from B street north. The national thoroughface presented an unusual and attractive appearance. Along the sidewalks curbs were packed, thousands and thousands of people forming living line between which the pageant was to pass. The street was clear of all obstructions. During the inaugural ceremonies at the Capitol the first division of the parade, composed of the regular army and navy contingent, the Annapolis and West Point cadets, the Porto Rican troops, and the District of Columbia National Guard, remained in close columns, stretching from the Capitol grounds out New Jersey avenue. Meanwhile Yeas: Senators Bate, Berry, Beveridge, Burrows, Carter, Clay, Dolliver, Foraker, Hale, Jones of Arkansas, Kyle, Lindsay, Capitol Hill. The civic organizations were being formed at the foot of the hill. As the President descended the steps of the Senate wing he was met by Grand Marshal Greene and his staff and by his personal escort, Troop A of Cleveland, Ohio. Then the column took up its march. The first organization to wheel into the avenue was a plateon of mounted police.

Maj. Richard Sylvester, superintendent of police, led the great pageant.

Plays "Hail to the Chief." Immediately following the police came the Governor's Island Band, from the United States military post in New York harbor. This band was given the position of honor throughout and was the only musical organization allowed to play "Hail to the Chief" in passing the President in review. The grand marshal of the parade, Major General Francis Vinton Greene, United States Volunteers, appeared next in line. General Greene was clothed in dress uniform. His rank was designated by a sash of red, white and blue slung from the left shoulder to the right side. In his hand General Greene carried the beautiful goldmounted mahogany marshal's baton which was presented to him Saturday last by the

Together with the other members of the staff, the personnel of which will be found elsewhere, he worea sash of red. Next followed the grand marshal's aids, first military, in full uniform, and civilians in frock coats and silk the aids in line, other than those of the grand marshal, wore sashes of blue. The manding the military, and B. H. Warner, commanding the civic, wore sashes of red and white. The marshals of divisions were sashes of red and blue, and the marshals ### of brigades sashes of blue and white.

Troop A at Right of Line. The famous Troop A of Cleveland again had the right of line, marching from the Capitol to the White House. Under command of Captain Bunts, the cavalrymen, all mounted on black horses, rode immediately in the rear of the grand marshal and his aids. The troop acted as personal escort to the President, and headed the presidential party, riding in carriages.

Stretching to the length of several miles behind the President's party came the main body of the parade, the military grand division, numbering some 16,000 men, and commanded by Maj. Gen. John R. Brooke of the United States army, the commanding officer of the department of the east. General Brooke rode at the head of the division. attended by the following staff: Maj. Wm. A. Simpson, U. S. First Appearance is Subsequent to Proceedings at Capitol. The second division of the military section of the parade made its first appearance before the public in the march from the Capitol to the White House. The division was under command of Gov. William A. gia, commanded by Maj. John H. Deveaux. Stone of Pennsylvania, and was composed largely of the fourteen regiments of infantry and several separate national guard organizations from the keystone state. The troops of Delaware were in the division. Gov. Stone rode a beautiful horse. He was attended by Brig. Gen. Thomas J. Stewart, adjutant general of the state, and the following staff: Staff-Colonels Ezra H. Ripple, Assistant Adjutant General; Frank G. Sweeney, Inspector General; Thomas Potter, jr., Quar-termaster General; Lieut. Col. Samuel Moody, Assistant Quartermaster General; Col. Edward E. Next followed the nine thousand troops from Pennsylvania, the largest representation from a single state ever seen in an inaugural parade.

Once the main body of Pennsylvania was well on Pennsylvania avenue the column of blue-coated keystone men reached from the marshals of grand divisions, Major General | Capitol to the treasury and beyond. The lohn R. Brooke, United States army, comenting guard of the state was in line, with the exception of a few companies. The commanding officer of the immense detachment was Major General Charles Miller, who was accompanied by Lieutenant Colonel William J. Elliott, as assistant adju-tant general, and the following staff: Lieutenant Colonel John P. Penney, in-spector; Lieutenant Colonel Howard L. Calder, judge advocate; Lieutenant Colonel William F. Richardson, quartermaster; Lieutenant Colonel Austin Curtin, commissary of subsistence; Lieutenant Colonel Jos. K. Miller, Lewis

E. Beitler. Make a Good Showing.

The Pennsylvanians made an excellent showing. There was not the monotony that might have been expected from the appearance of fourteen regiments of a single service marching consecutively, for each regimental organization was headed by a fine military band, playing all along the route of the parade. The Pennsylvania troops were divided into three brigades. The 3d Brigade appeared first in line, owing to the superfority of its commanding officer, Brig. Gen. J. P. S. Gobin. Gen. Gobin was accompanied by the following staff:
Maj. William S. Millar, inspector; Maj.

Norman S. Farquhar, judge advocate; Maj. Orlando L. Nichols, quartermaster; Maj. Simon B. Cameron, commissary of sub-sistence; Maj. William P. Clarke, ordnance officer; Maj. George H. Halberstadt, surgeon. Aids—Capts. William W. Inglis, Fred The organizations of the brigade appeared
